

★★★★★ CAUTION: WILL MAKE YOU GO DEAF, May 18, 2009

By Sharon B. Buchbinder "Writer"  (Baltimore, MD USA) - See all my reviews

REAL NAME™

I picked this book up before I boarded a plane to Florida. I was told the ride was turbulent and that babies were crying endlessly. I didn't feel or hear a thing because I was so engrossed in SCREENSHOT. I was hooked at the start when Seth Mathias is invited to witness to a murder broadcast on the internet. Mathias thinks his son, a computer guru, sent him the URL, but the son says no, someone must have stolen his email. And then, Mathias is off and running after a multi-billionaire techno-thrill-killer who has targeted some of the worst deviants in society--along with Mathias and a few other innocent bystanders. A journalist, Mathias is not completely without resources and contacts, a major oversight on the part of the villain, especially when the connections include an FBI agent with a personal agenda and a computer genius with a deep-seated grudge against the Nobel Prize Committee. If you hate flying as much as I do and are looking for a quick, fun read, pack SCREENSHOT for your next trip and you'll be "having some fun," too.

Sharon Buchbinder is the author of The Lake Placid Cure and Catastrophe.